

09/943763

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A leadframe configuration for a semiconductor device has a die attach paddle with paddle support bars. In addition, clamp tabs extend outwardly from lesser supported locations of the paddle to underlie a conventional lead clamp. The clamp tabs are formed as an integral part of the paddle. Normal clamping during die attach and wire bonding operations prevents paddle movement and enhances integrity of the die bond and wire bonds.

N:\2269\3388.6\cont.pat.app.wpd 8/30/01 tlb

700E30" E92e4960